

Story starter!

Crystal clear waters were home to the vast collection of vessels. If it wasn't for the peeling paint and the faded fishing nets, you couldn't tell these boats had years of history hidden in their beams. I breathed deeply, filling my lungs with the fresh air that surrounded me. I looked carefully at the biggest of the boats and my mind began to wander. Who owned it? Where had it sailed too? What sort of memories were hidden amongst the ropes and nets?

Sentence challenge!

- ▶ ‘wasn’t’ and ‘couldn’t’ are both examples of apostrophes being used in contractions. Can you put these contractions into sentences about the picture?
- ▶ didn’t, shouldn’t, hadn’t

Question time!

- ▶ Who do the boats belong to? Where have they been?
- ▶ Who lives in the houses at the harbour?
- ▶ Who is telling the story? Why are they at the harbour?

Sick sentences!

These sentences are sick and need your help!

- ▶ Where did the biggest boat sail to? Can you draw a picture of the boat, and the people who owned it, on their adventure?

Perfect picture!

Where did the biggest boat sail to? Can you draw a picture of the boat, and the people who owned it, on their adventure?

